- The final steps of the project
- The IO3 - Face to Face workshops and the local competitions
- The Multiplier events
- The Final Conference

The final steps of the Project

The EDEEY project it's near to its end and we are very happy that all the outputs have been delivered successfully! The final output IO3 – Face to face workshops is done in each partner country with success and the partners are now finalising the Multiplier events! The Final Conference was the highlight of the project which took place on the 22nd of June!

The Final Conference in London!

The Final Conference was hosted by London Southbank University Business School on the 22nd of June 2022! The conference was attended by the project partners, business professionals, and young people from local schools and a group of business students from Poland.

The participants had the opportunity to learn and visit the EDEEY training platform, and to hear about the four national competitions (in Greece, Cyprus, Czech Republic and the UK) to train aspiring entrepreneurs to undertake the EDEEY training before designing a business plan. Participants then had the opportunity to vote on the UK competition winners before the winners were announced.

At the end of the conference there was a key-note speech from Lucy Findlay MBE, Founder and Managing Director of Social Enterprise Mark CIC– the only UK based, international accreditation social enterprise that independently proves that businesses or organisations puts profits towards social or environmental good rather than creating shareholder value.

Beyond the project days

As it mentioned above the project is near to its end (project officially ends on the 30th of June). However, the website and the eLearning platform will be available for the next 3 years to all persons that are interested to learn about digital entrepreneurship! The partnership are very happy that the project ends successfully and there was a smooth collaboration during these 2 years!
